FOREWORD

Tan Sri Rafidah Aziz

Patron of PPSEAWA Malaysia

I would like at the outset, to bid a very warm welcome, Selamat Datang, to all participants to this 26th PPSEAWA International Conference being held here in Malaysia.

We are honoured by the gracious attendance of DYMM Paduka Seri Sultan Perak Darul Ridzuan, Sultan Nazrin Muizzuddin Shah Ibni Almarhum Sultan Azlan Muhibbuddin Shah Al-Maghfur-lah, to Officiate the conference, reflecting the support given by His Royal Highness to PPSEAWA's efforts.

The conference theme "Respect the Environment, for a Sustainable and Peaceful Future", serves to remind every member of society, anywhere, of the responsibility to input into environmental protection and preservation, on an ongoing basis, so that this planet earth can continue to provide the necessary life and sustenance to human beings and all living creatures, for all ensuing generations.

There is the need to be aware of how the environment can be protected and preserved, in our everyday activities, and on the converse, to clearly understand how and when, our human actions and attitudes can jeopardize the lives of future generations, due to environmental degradation.

We are able to do our part for a sustainable future, at all levels and in all spheres of activities. It begins from family units, extending to schools, workplaces, and organizations to which we belong. And adherence to rules and regulations pertaining to environmental protection will ensure an end to activities that lead to environmental degradation.

Certainly PPSEAWA at both the regional and member country levels can effectively champion the cause, through dedicated programmes and activities, particularly in collaboration with other organizations.

Sustainability is a key factor to ensure that future generations can continue to optimally benefit from the bounties that planet earth can offer. And it is important that the generation of today do not indiscriminately erode and destroy the environment, thus depriving the generations of the future of a decent life, having to contend with a planet that cannot properly sustain life.

It is hoped that this PPSEAWA Conference in Malaysia will contribute towards moving forward the sustainability agenda, and enhance that necessary awareness of individual and collective roles and responsibilities, in respecting the environment for a sustainable and peaceful future.

Have a successful conference.

FOREWORD

Teresa Hintzke

President of International PPSEAWA

Dear Ladies,

On behalf of the PPSEAWA International Council and myself in particular, I would like to thank each of you for giving all the participants such a warm welcome and to arranging this meeting. Thank you for representing "Respect the Environment for Sustainable and Peaceful Future".

I will thank each of you personally but I would now like to acknowledge these members:

Dato Rahmah Hamid, PPSEAWA Malaysia President

Norohaniza Mohammad Noor, Asst Hon Secretary of PPSEAWA Malaysia

Rafidah Aziz, Patron of PPSEAWA Malaysia

Dato' Rahmah Abdul Hamid

President of PPSEAWA Malaysia

SELAMAT DATANG to all PPSEAWA delegates, members and friends to my home, Malaysia, home to the 26th PPSEAWA International Conference 2016.

We take great pride, as host nation, to welcome all of you and we have painstakingly prepared a comprehensive and entertaining programme for you, our distinguished delegates.

As we take you through the nine days of this conference, we extend our Malaysian hospitality, our food, our culture and our sights for you all to appreciate, savour and enjoy.

Let it be known that what you experience here will be one of the sweetest of memories you retain in your 'power bank'.

On behalf of all members of the organising committee, thank you all for your effort to join us, for your time with us and for your commitment to 'Respect the Environment for a Sustainable and Peaceful Future.'

ABOUT PPSEAWA

In 1928, in Honolulu, a group of women with international concerns, hoping to promote peace through understanding and friendship, convened to establish the Pan Pacific Women's Association. In 1955, the name was changed to Pan Pacific and Southeast Asia Women's Association to more accurately reflect the organization's expanding area of interest.

International Conference the primary focus was the exchange of experiences relating to national problem areas for women and children in and around the Pacific. Since 1930, international conferences have been held approximately every three years, bringing women together for meetings, lectures, workshops, and cultural programmes concerned with women, families and the promotion of peaceful lives for all.

PPSEAWA's Mission Statement:

1. To strengthen the bonds of peace by promoting better understanding and fostering friendship among all women of the Pacific and Southeast Asia;
2. To initiate and promote cooperation among the women of these regions for the study and improvement of social, economic, and cultural conditions.

PPSEAWA comprises 23 autonomous national member organizations, many having several local chapters. Any group of women in countries within the Pacific and South East Asia areas which is committed to the purposes of the Association may apply directly to the International Council for membership. Members in member organizations may be individuals or representatives of women's organizations with common objectives.

- PPSEAWA is the only international women's organization devoted to peace and understanding in the Pacific and South East Asia.
- PPSEAWA is financed by contributions from individuals, organizations, and PPSEAWA member organizations.
- PPSEAWA members are kept informed through an International Bulletin, published twice yearly, and through the Newsletters of member organizations.

PPSEAWA's Goals:

- Identifying the needs and problems of today's women and children.
- Protecting the status of women and children and promoting family and child welfare.
- Furthering education, training and literacy programs for all ages.
- Working to protect and improve the environment.
- Raising funds and provide support locally and region wide.

PPSEAWA's Vision:

- The growth of the organization both through increased membership in existing member organizations and through the establishment of new member organizations.
- Increased programme activities in all member countries.
- Increased participation in all United Nations affairs.
